Profile

I am an experienced engineer who is passionate about iOS development. I was employee number two at The League and saw it grow from a few thousand users to over one hundred thousand users in a year's time. I've worked at five early stage startups so I understand the handwork that goes into a business. My app, Piano Helper, has been downloaded over 20k times and my new app, Giffel, is taking off as a Gif creation/sharing tool. Clean elegant coding, and UI/UX are my passions. I also launched Human Touch, a marketplace for retouchers recently. I also created numerous other apps for startups as a freelance contractor.
